PUBLISHERS who have not yet sent their lists for insertion in the Trade List Annual, 1895, are requested to ship the required 1750 copies at the earliest possible date to J. F. Tapley & Co., 9 Bond Street, New York City, as we cannot insert catalogues received after July 31st, except under special arrangement and at an extra cost to the publisher.

NOTES IN SEASON.

E. A. WEEKS & Co., Chicago, have just ready a cheap edition of Gyp's "Chiffon's Marriage," translated by Nora Teller.

THE BAPTIST BOOK CONCERN, Louisville, Ky., has in course of publication a new book by J. T. Christian, entitled "Rome or America, Which?"

T. Y. CROWELL & Co. announce two new works to be added to their Library of Economics and Politics. The first is a treatise on psychology, by Professor Bascom of Williams College; the other will be entitled "The Insurance of Workmen Against Accidents, Sickness and Old Age," by Dr. W. F. Willoughby, of the Department of Labor, at Washington, D. C.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have in preparation a series of Standard School Books, including "The Students' Standard Dictionary," already fully described in the WEEKLY; "The Students' Standard Synonyms," prepared by J. C. Fernald, a companion to "The Students' Standard Dictionary"; "The Students' Standard Speller," and a series of five "Standard" readers, all of which will have new and important features.

THE CASSELL PUB. CO. have just ready "At Heart a Rake," by Florence Marryat; and "Sons of Belial," by William Westall, author of "The Phantom City." Their newest additions to the Union Square Library are "The Story of a Modern Woman," by Ella Hepworth Dixon; and "A Pastoral Played Out," by Mary L. Pendered; and to the Unknown Library they have just added "The Making of Mary," by Jean Forsyth; "A King's Diary," by the author of "Mr. Bailey-Martin"; "Gentleman Upcott's Daughter," by Tom Cobleigh, and "A Splendid Cousin," by Mrs. Andrew Dean.

LOVELL, CORYELL & Co. have just ready in their Belgravia Series an entertaining collection of stories, from the New York Sun, illustrating homely bucolic life, as exemplified in the types to be seen in the smaller towns and villages of the country, and among the gossips congregated in and around the taverns or corner groceries. The volume, which is from the familiar pen of Ed. Mott, author of "Pike County Folk," etc., is entitled "The Old Settler, the Squire, and Little Peleg." They have also just ready new copyright summer novels, including Lie's "The Commodore's Daughters"; Bjornson's "Heritage of the Kurts"; Zangwill's "The Old Maid's Club"; and Ambrose Bierce's "Tales of Soldiers and Civilians," full of horrors of the battlefield.

"MONEY AND BANKING," by Horace White, editor of the New York Evening Post, will be published by Ginn & Co. towards the end of August. Mr. White illustrates the theme of Money from American history, reviews the various developments of paper and silver currency, and gives the experience of European nations with the gold standard. In treating Banking he explains the functions of a bank, traces the successive phases of American banking, and forecasts its probable future. Eight appendices add much to the value of the work; three of them set forth "The Baltimore Plan," "Secretary Carlisle's Plan," and "Recent Bimetallist Movements in Germany." Mr. White is an uncompromising upholder of the gold standard and an able critic of American currency and banking systems.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initials designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); O. 4to: under 30 cm.; O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Alden, Mrs. Isabella, M. ["Pansy," pseud.]

What they couldn't: a home story; il. by C: Mente. Bost., Lothrop Pub. Co., 1895. c. 3+424 p. D. cl., $1.50. [2535]

When the Camerons are introduced, they are seen as a family constantly fretting over petty cares, unable to overcome difficulties because of an overwhelming spirit of selfishness which existed in individual members, preventing them from seeing that they were in the main the cause of their own troubles. Later they are seen under the influence of Christian influences. The interest of the story lies principally in its moral lesson.

Adams, Rev. Ja. E: The missionary pastor: hints for developing the missionary life in his church; ed. from the material of the educational department of student volunteer movement for foreign missions; with charts prepared by R. J. Kellogg. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 1895. 171 p. 16°, cl., 75 c. [2536]

Allen, Grant. The story of the plants. N. Y., Appleton, 1895. c. 3-213 p. il. S. (Library of useful stories.) cl., 40 c. [2537]

The author freely admits the main results of the latest investigations, accepting throughout the revolutionary theory and making the study of plants a first introduction to the great modern principles of heredity, variation, natural selection and adaptation to the environment. Little space is given to structural detail, but the author has dwelt especially on the interrelation of the plant and animal worlds. The functions and habits of plants have taken precedence of their classification and structure.

Bierce, Ambrose. Tales of soldiers and civilians. N. Y., Lovell, Coryell & Co., [1895.] c. '91. 4-300 p. D. (Series of American novels, no. 19.) pap., 50 c. [2538]
See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., December 10, 1892, [1089.]

Booth, Mrs. Eliza M. J. Gollon, ["Rita," pseud., now Mrs. Desmond Humphreys.] Master Wilberforce: the study of a boy. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1895. c. 4+342 p. D. cl., $1. [2539]

Having advanced the theory that there should be an entire absence of restraint in the bringing up of a child, the professor, soon after the birth of his only son, determines to test this theory. Its workings are traced in the case of Master Wilberforce, likewise in the instance of an adopted daughter of the Wilberforces.

Brown, Alice. Meadow-grass: tales of New-England life. Bost., Copeland & Day, 1895. c. 3+315 p. S. cl., $1.50. [2540]

Cooke, M. C. ["Uncle Matt," pseud.] Down the lane and back in search of wild flowers. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1895. 8-114 p. il. S. bds., 50 c. [2544]

Cooke, M. C. ["Uncle Matt," pseud.] Through the copse: another ramble after flowers. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1895. 6-106 p. il. bds., 50 c. [2545]

Five dainty little books through which young people may acquire a fair knowledge of botany.

Cuyler, Theo. L., D.D. The young preacher: 3d ed. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell Co., 111 p. 16°, cl., 50 c. [2546]

Davis, Varina Anne Jefferson. The veiled doctor: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1895. c. 220 p. D. cl., $1.25. [2547]

The daughter of Jefferson Davis tells a sad story of which the scene is a sleepy old town quite out of the lines of present travel, and the time almost a century ago. The doctor who had been the strength and comfort of his patients succumbs to abject fear and horror when told that he is the victim of a disease which must end in disfigurement and painful death. He is married and his wife and he live separate lives in the same house. The suffering of mind and heart borne by man and wife is told with dramatic power.

Donohoe, T., D.D. The Iroquois and the Jesuits: the story of the labors of Catholic missionaries among these Indians. Buffalo, N. Y., Buffalo Catholic Pub. Co., 1895. c. '94. 14+276 p. D. cl., net, $1.25. [2548]

The facts relating to the Jesuit missionary work among the Indians two hundred years ago in the territory now the central and western part of the New York State are taken from the "Relations de la Nouvelle France." These "relations" were letters written by the devoted Jesuits from their mission fields to their superiors at Quebec.

Douglas, Rob. K. Li Hungchang. N. Y., F: Warne & Co., 1895. 251 p. por. D. (Public men of to-day.) cl., $1.25. [2549]

The materials for this life of the great Viceroy of China have been gathered from the Peking Gazette, in which Li Hungchang expresses to his lord and master his views on political and administrative questions and in which also he receives outspoken praise or blame from the Imperial pen; from the local newspapers; from Blue Books in which Li's part in all diplomatic controversies of the time are recorded; and from friends who have come in close contact with the statesman.

Dowden, E: New studies in literature. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1895. 9+451 p. D. cl., $3. [2550]

These studies appeared during a series of years in The Fortnightly Review. The introduction is a venture towards expressing certain hopes and fears for literature at the present day, specially connected with the democratic tendencies and the scientific movement of our century. The separate studies are entitled: Mr. Meredith in his poems; Poetry of Rob. Bridges; Poetry of John Donne; Amours de voyage; Goethe (5 essays), including a document hitherto unpublished; Coleridge as a poet; Edmond Scherer; Literary criticism in France; Teaching of English literature.

* In this list, the titles generally are verbatim transcriptions (according to the rule of the American Library Association) from books received. Books not received are indicated by a prefixed asterisk, and this office cannot be held responsible for the correctness of their record.

Doyle, A. Conan, and others. Strange secrets. N. Y., R. F. Fenno & Co., [1895.] c. 287 p. D. cl., $1. [2551]

Gives no clue to the individual authors. Separate titles of secrets: Secret of Swalecliffe Castle; Secret of the mine; Secret of Calverley Court; Secret of Cousin Geoffrey's Chamber; Secret of Goresthorpe Grange; The box with iron clamps; The spectre hand; The ghost of Lawford Hall; Coachful of ghosts; George Venn and the ghost; Mystery of Daffodil Terrace; Why new houses are haunted; Very queer inn.

Easton, Morton W., ed. Readings in Gower.

Bost., Ginn & Co., 1895. 2+50 p. O. (Publications of the University of Pennsylvania, ser. in philology, literature, and archaeology, v. 4, no. 1.) bds., 60 c. [2552]

The author is professor of Comparative Philology in the University of Pennsylvania. The readings are all from the manuscripts in the British Museum. A new edition of Gower's "Confessio Amantis" would seem much needed, neither Pauli nor Henry Morley having sufficiently exhausted the material for research, but such a work would take much time and the author thinks these preliminary studies may fill an important purpose.

Fletcher, Rob., M.D. Medical lore in the older English dramatists and poets (exclusive of Shakespeare); read before the Historical Club of the Johns Hopkins Hospital, May 13, 1895. Balt., Md., [published for the author, Rob. Fletcher, M.D., by] The Friedenwald Co., 1895. 35 p. O. pap., n. p. [2553]

The Assistant Librarian in the Surgeon-General's Office of the U. S. A. has, during his miscellaneous reading for many years copied passages relating to medical subjects, and from this collection has selected the readings. He has classified his quotations as far as possible, covering first the condition of medicine in the Elizabethan era; next references to venereal disease and its treatment, lastly, miscellaneous curiosities of therapeutics, etc.

Galbraith, Anna M., M.D. Hygiene and physical culture for women. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1895. c. 29+294 p. il. D. cl., $1.75. (Corr. price.) [2554]

Gissing, G. In the year of Jubilee. N. Y., Appleton, 1895. c. '94, '95. 2+404 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 172.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [2555]

The incidents of the novel occur in Camberwell, England, in the time of the Jubilee given in honor of the fifty years' reign of Queen Victoria (1887). Nancy Lord having made a secret and hasty marriage just before the death of her father, learns that there is a clause forbidding her marriage under a specified age. The story centres in her action thereafter and in the mystery in her mother's life.

Grindon, Leopold Hartley. The sexuality of nature. 2d American ed. Bost., Massachusetts New-Church Union, 1895. 3-124 p. D. cl., 75 c. [2556]

An essay, to prove that sex and the marriage union are universal principles, fundamental alike in physics, physiology and psychology. Additional supplementary notes are included in the present edition.

Guthrie, Kenneth S. Of Communion with God. Phil., G. W. Jacobs & Co., 1895. c. 2+62 p. Tt. cl., net, 35 c. [2557]

Meditations and readings, treating of love, of the presence of God, of adoration and of peace

Hall, T. B. Outline of the infringement of patents for inventions, not designs, based solely on the opinions of the supreme court of the United States. N. Y. and Alb., Banks & Bros., 1895. c. 6+86 p. D. cl., $1. [2558]

Hawkins, Emma D. Kelley. Four girls at Cottage City. Providence, R. I., The Continental Printing Co., [1895.] c. 3-379 p. D. cl., $1. [2559]

Four cheery New England girls start on a vacation

and settle in Cottage City, Maine. Their experience en route and after arrival (notably the hunting a boarding-house, and the introduction of the masculine element, in the shape of two next door neighbors, who play important parts in the lives of two of the girls) make a bright story.

Heatley, H. R., and Kingdon, H. N. The new gradatim: a revision with many additions and omissions of "Gradatim, an easy Latin translation book for beginners"; prepared by W. C. Collar. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1895. c. 8+189 p. S. cl., 55 c. [2560]

In this revision thirty-four anecdotes have been omitted and as many additions have been made. Among these are The story of the Argonauts and The story of Ulysses. The editor has thought it necessary to slightly change the title to distinguish this edition.

Hichens, Rob. S. An imaginative man. N. Y., Appleton, 1895. c. 2+287 p. D. cl., $1.25. [2561]

The author of "The green carnation" presents a story with scene laid in Egypt of which the interest centres in the psychological analysis of the hero, who cannot tear himself away from contemplation of the great Sphinx. He is a married man, whose wife's soul longs for London commonplace. To give a reason for his long stay among Egyptian deserts he devotes himself to a young man dying of consumption who is spending the last days of his existence in reckless dissipation. The climax is a tragedy.

Hubbard, Elbert. William Wordsworth. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, [1895.] 206-229 p. S. (Little journeys to the homes of good men and great, no. 8.) pap., 5 c. [2562]

This book and the thesis which appears as appendix composed the author's examination papers for the First and Standard Doctorate in Theology. The work is intended as a reply by Christianity (in this case the Roman Catholic branch of Christianity) to the religious claims of agnosticism, as worded by Bacon, Descartes, Huxley, Locke, Hume, Kant, Comte, Mill, Tyndall, etc.

Lydekker, R., ed. The royal natural history. N. Y., F: Warne & Co., [1895.] 193-288 p. col. pl. il. O. (Warne's library of natural history, in 36 nos., v. 1, no. 3.) subs., pap., 50 c. [2569]

Describes the physical structure of marmosets, sifakas and other varieties of the monkey family; presenting at the same time their peculiar traits, and giving their origin, habitation, etc., with the natural history of a great variety of bats, and other wonders of the animal kingdom.

Maartens, Maarten, [pseud. for J. Vander Poorsen Schwartz.] My Lady Nobody: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1895. c. 5+413 p. il. D. cl., $1.75. [2570]

My Lady Nobody is the noble daughter of a Dutch village pastor, who started life as a soldier and always kept uppermost the militant aspect of religion. Two brothers seek her in marriage; of one she discovers that he has betrayed a girl and deserted her. She marries the other and endeavors to help the unfortunate girl. Her husband misunderstands her and her life is full of care. The author's powers are at their best in his descriptions of quiet Dutch families with their intense interest in small things and their slavery to conventionalities.

Tompkins, Eliz. Knight. Her Majesty: a romance of to-day. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1895. c. 3+222 p. D. (Hudson lib., no. 6.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [2587]

The author of "An unlessoned girl" makes a contribution to the many schemes for social government appealing to the best in humanity. Her Majesty is a young girl supposed to be Queen who retires to a convent to learn what is said of her. Later she wanders abroad unattended except by her dog, attends socialistic meetings, falls in love with a leader, makes him prime minister, confesses her love, marries him, and together they are called to rule a country which had in vain tried to rule itself.

*United States. Interior Department: Geological Survey. Fourteenth annual report 1892-'93. By J. W. Powell, director. Part I. Report of the director. Part II. Accompanying papers. Wash., D. C.,

Van Dyke, Theo. S. Game birds at home. N. Y., Fords, Howard & Hulbert, 1895. c. 2-219 p. D. cl., $1.50. [2589]

The author of "The still hunter," "Southern California," etc., has been devoted to the gun for forty years, and for eighteen years has written for the sportsmen of America. He dwells upon the fact that love of nature must be the chief element in hunting, otherwise the sport is synonymous with murder. In fourteen chapters he describes the scenes in which are found woodcock, ruffed grouse, ducks, wild geese, American cranes, plover, quails of California; snipe, salt-water birds and wild turkey.

PICK-UPS.

ALL THEY'RE GOOD FOR. "You have plenty of reading here," said a visitor to the literary editor of a New York journal, pointing to a pile of books on the editorial desk. "They are not for reading," replied the editor; "they are for reviewing."

THOMAS A. JANVIER writes to the Critic from the Provence this bibliophilistic romance: "Mme. Roumanille, the widow of the poet, has had a streak of old-book-dealer's luck that you can make luckier (probably) if you will give it three or four lines of announcement in your literary notes. Practically for nothing, with a lot of old books which she bought somewhere, she has picked up a Solinus of 1520, edited by Camers—the book that contains the first dated map on which is the name 'America.' She had this out on her street-table in a lot of trash. Then a professor from Jena happened to be in Avignon and happened to see it; and he so earnestly asked the price of it that she perceived that it must be something very much out of the common way. Therefore she told him (which was quite true) that no price had as yet been put on it, and he offered her 25 francs, which she had the wit to refuse. She wrote to Paris about it, and received from the dealer to whom she applied for information an offer of 500 francs and the half of all that he might obtain above that sum when he resold it. And again she refused. The size of her treasure now dawned upon her, and she began castle-building on the strength of it. Her next step was to write to the librarian of the Royal Library at Vienna (where the Solinus was published) and ask him what the book was worth, implying that she wanted to buy a copy, not to sell one. The answer was that there was little likelihood of her finding the book; but that if she did, she might expect to pay for it 1000 francs. And so she has at last marked a price in her copy, and the price is 1500 francs. This is a good way above the recorded prices of the two or three copies sold in the past forty years; but Mme. Roumanille's contention is that the book practically is an impossibility (which is true), and that she therefore will ask what she pleases for it—and wait until the inevitable purchaser comes along."

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 27, 1895.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

AUTHORS AS PUBLISHERS.

. . . Author: "Be it so, sir, I accept your estimate. Let me say that only one man is required." Johnson: "Let us say no such thing, sir. The estimate, as you call it, is none of mine. I did but correct yours in order to reduce it ad absurdum. For what can be more absurd than to say that even to the production of a book but one man is necessary—the man who makes it. Is it then made by one man, and that man the author, or is it to be so made in future? Is the writer of the book to make the paper on which it is printed, and to set up the type, and to bind the volumes?" The Author: "No, sir. I do not mean that. I should, perhaps, have used the word 'distribution' instead of the word 'production.' It is in the distribution of the book that the publisher is, in my opinion, unnecessary. To that process there are, I maintain, but two necessary parties—the author and the bookseller. Why should not the author send his book direct from the printer and bookbinder to the shop of the bookseller? A business representative, a clerk, a cashier, is all he would want for such a purpose." Johnson: "Does a book then drop down from heaven ready printed and bound? If not, how is it to be got into the hands of the printer and bookbinder? Is the author's clerk, his cashier, to do this business for him, too? Is he to make his contract with the paper-maker for the paper, and with the printer for the printing, and with the binder for the binding? Why, sir, at that rate every author will have to keep a counting-house of his own, with all its apparatus, and will have to spend more hours at his ledger than in his library. Besides, if he can do this, why stop there? Why should he not abolish the bookseller and sell his own books? Why not plant a clerk or a cashier in a rented shop in fifty country towns? They could doubtless make shift to sell a thousand copies each, and you would then add the bookseller's profits, such as they are, on the whole fifty thousand, to your own."

. . . Boswell: "That is true, sir; but we do not care a fig which wins; and why, then, should it matter to you whether Mr. — could extinguish publishers or not?"

Johnson: "Sir, it does matter. It matters to every man, woman, and child in the kingdom. Suppose it were possible for him to do without the publisher in his own case, and, by that means, to drive an even better trade in his own works than he seems to have driven hitherto. Nay, suppose all other writers of the same kind could do the same thing. What would that prove as to the publishers' utility or inutility to the world? The gentleman talks as if all literature were contained within the covers of six-shilling romances that run through fifty editions in a year. But unless all literature be, in fact, contained therein, how will it fare with the remainder of it? Could the publisher be dispensed with for that? Can the poet, the historian, the moralist, open shop for themselves and send their own works by 'a clerk or a cashier' direct from the binder to the country bookseller, to be by him disposed of to an eager crowd of buyers at the rate of a thousand copies a week? No, sir, we all well know that they cannot; and that since they cannot, they will always need the services of some trader—call him publisher, bookseller, or what you will—with capital enough to undertake the venture, and to lie out of his money till its slow returns come back to him."—Imaginary conversation in H. D. Traill's "The Revolution in Grub Street," in July Fortnightly Review.

As a reverse side of the glowing picture drawn by Mr. Hall Caine of the era of prosperity for the author when the publisher shall have been consigned to limbo, and the author make and distribute his own books—by the tens of thousands, was it?—we have the painful spectacle of the tribulation of one of Mr. Caine's guild, who, to his sorrow, tried to realize just such a phantasy as that imagined by his English confrère. Few American authors, at the time when Mr. Samuel L. Clemens helped to organize the firm of Charles L. Webster & Co., had so wide a reputation for shrewdness in making a bargain with his publishers, and for being able to look after the business end of his affairs; he also had some practical knowledge of the printing business; and, last but not least, his works were notably good sellers, and he had the personal good-will of the book trade as well as of most others of his fellow-citizens. In short, he was supposed to have every qualification of a good business man, as well as of a clever author. And yet, at the examination in supplementary proceedings on an unsatisfied execution returned by the sheriff on a judgment against his firm, his ignorance of, or indifference to, even ordinary business details proved indeed astounding. The firm started out with a phenomenal success, directed by a man who was not only a genius as a publisher, but a careful and circumspect manager as well. In the early days of the existence of the firm "lucky 'Mark Twain'" naturally was looked up to with envy by those obliged to depend upon the "demnition" publisher for their daily bread. Here was a man indeed who dispelled the illusion that a successful author could not also be a successful publisher! When the directing genius was suddenly removed by death his associates gradually became aware of the fact that they represented x in the management of the affairs of the firm. They struggled for a while trying to repeat the successes of Mr. Webster; but, as might have been foretold, they ended in failure. In the meantime the author-publisher followed his natural inclination, which was towards the library rather than towards the counting-house, and when the catastrophe was consummated he was probably more surprised than were the creditors of the firm. The moral to be drawn from all this sad business is probably evident enough without our pointing it out. Distinct qualifications are needed to make a successful publisher, which, we will not deny, are also possibly given to the author, but only if he apply himself distinctively to the task of acquiring them. Those who strive to combine the calling of an author with the trade of the publisher do it, as a rule, at the risk of failing either as author or as publisher. The exceptions that might possibly be named are not numerous enough, nor of sufficient importance, to establish a rule.

HIGH PRICES IN LITERATURE.

IN adding his mite to the authors' controversy with the publishers in England, Jerome K. Jerome writes: "I am glad that Mr. Gosse has brought up the question of high prices in literature. I am enabled myself to take a very broad-minded and unprejudiced view of the case, for I happen to be two persons rolled into one—both author and editor. As author I like to get, and I like to see other men getting, the highest possible figure for their work. As editor I am bound to endorse Mr. Gosse's opinion. Authors are asking impossible sums both for serial and book rights. I do not say for a moment that it is greediness on their part; they merely ask what they know their brethren are asking, and what editors and publishers are willing to give them. They would be very foolish if they did otherwise. It is the fault of the editors and publishers who, in the race for big names, are willing to give a price, and pay royalties upon which they undoubtedly, in many cases, lose largely, and the consequence is that the smaller author is squeezed down to pay the fee necessary to secure the larger. In magazines and newspapers no work is ever worth the price asked by the leading men. I can publish a story, the mere serial rights of which cost me £100, and it does not sell one extra copy of my paper. The truth is that any paper or magazine with a circulation of anything over fifty thousand is immovable by any mere name. Its readers already number the whole of the public to whom authors' names convey any meaning. The big name is only useful to a new venture. Editors are beginning to see that after the first two years matter is of more importance than label, and these inflated prices will disappear. Meanwhile, it is absurd to blame the authors. It would not be in human nature for them to refuse money that they can easily get, simply because they know that their goods do not represent in value the actual amount paid."

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION.

At the last meeting of the trustees of the Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association the following officers were re-elected: President, Charles T. Dillingham; first vice-president, John A. Holden; second vice-president, Robert Morris; treasurer, Joseph F. Vogelius; and secretary, Wilbur B. Ketcham.

It is the purpose of the new board of trustees to make a determined effort to increase the membership of the association to the full limit—fifteen hundred. They have engaged Mr. D. N. Morrison, formerly of Philadelphia, to canvass the book and stationery trades in New York and elsewhere, and they bespeak for him hearty co-operation. It should be borne in mind by those who are already members, and who recognize the good accomplished, that much depends upon their efforts to keep the association up to the mark as far as numbers are concerned. The quota now lacking is so inconsiderable that with but a little effort the maximum should be reached before the fall sets in.

The secretary complains of the tardiness of many members in paying their assessments. Mr. Ketcham is obliged again and again to remind delinquents who, he knows, are anxious to remain members, but who through carelessness or indifference allow their assessments to lapse until the very last moment. A little forethought in this direction would save the secretary unnecessary work and the association expense. If it were borne in mind that the secretary most unselfishly offers his services gratis we have no doubt that each member would do his part to make Mr. Ketcham's work as light and agreeable as possible.

NEW YORK NEWSDEALERS' AND STATIONERS' PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION.

FIFTY new members joined the New York Newsdealers' and Stationers' Protective and Benevolent Association, at its semi-monthly meeting, on the evening of the 23d inst. President T. F. Martin presided.

It was said after the meeting that the sudden access of new members was due solely to the recent action of the police in ordering the newsstands off the streets. It was decided to do nothing in this matter until after the Convention of the National Association, which will be held in Brooklyn on August 13.

President Martin expressed the hope that the troubles between the newsdealers and the police would soon be at an end. Arrangements were completed for the annual picnic of the association, which will be held at Metropolitan Park on August 14.

VIRGINIA BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

NORFOLK, VA., July 18, 1895.

To the Book Trade of the United States:

GENTLEMEN: Since sending out the announcement that our association would hold its annual meeting at Virginia Beach, on July 24 and 25, we find that it will be impossible for our president and several other members to be present on that date. We have, therefore, postponed the meeting until August 15 and 16, when we hope it will be convenient for all to attend.

By order of the Executive Committee,
W. L. BILISOLY, Sec. and Treas.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

HUTCHINSON vs. COLUMBIA CHEMICAL CO.

AN unusual lawsuit was instituted in Washington, D. C., on the 18th inst. by Mahlon Hutchinson against the Columbia Chemical Company. The plaintiff, stating that he sues on behalf of the United States and himself, alleges that the defendant violated the copyright laws by printing, publishing and circulating 1074 copies of a small book entitled "Method of Administration of the Animal Extracts," prepared by Dr. Wm. A. Hammond. Upon the 1074 copies of the book alleged to have been printed, published and circulated by the defendant company the plaintiff charges that the company falsely and fraudulently printed the following: "Copyrighted, 1894, by the Columbia Chemical Company."

Mr. Hutchinson claims that the company, because of its alleged violation of the law, section 4963 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, has become liable to a penalty of $100 on each and every one of the 1074 books, or, in all, $107,400, one-half of which amount he claims, the other half, he asserts, being due the United States under the law.

OBITUARY NOTES.

PROF. RUDOLPH GNEIST died in Berlin, July 22. He was born in Berlin, August 13, 1816. He was professor of jurisprudence in the University of Berlin, and published many works on historical, constitutional, and social subjects.

GEORGE C. KELLY, writer of novels under the pseudonym of "Harold Payne," committed suicide on the 24th by cutting his throat and jumping into a lake in Prospect Park, Brooklyn, N. Y. He was about thirty-seven years old, and for several years had been writing serial stories for various periodicals. His latest story, "The Meredith Marriage," was published in book form by the Bonners less than two weeks ago, and his "Queen of Finesse" had appeared not long before.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ALBANY, GA.—E. H. Crain, bookseller, has been closed out by the sheriff.

ALBANY, N. Y.—B. Quinn has sold out his book and news business to Pyke & McClasky. Mr. Visscher remains with the new firm, who will endeavor to extend the business still more. Their store is a pleasant one and located centrally, being on Broadway, one door south of Maiden Lane.

ATHENS, GA.—The stock of the defunct Athens Book and Stationery Co., formerly the Jackson-Burke Co., has been sold by the sheriff. A very considerable part of the goods were bought by D. W. McGregor, of this place.

BISMARCK, NO. DAK.—Frank E. Moorhouse, bookseller, has been succeeded by Mrs. A. C. Moorhouse.

CARIBOU, ME.—Miss L. F. Runnals, bookseller, has given a real estate mortgage for $440.

CHICAGO, ILL.—George Sherwood & Co., dealers in school-books, have sold out.

LONDON, ENG.—A branch of the Frederick A. Stokes Company has been opened at 15

Cecil Court, Charing Cross Road, W. C. The branch is under the management of Mr. Maynard A. Dominick, who is empowered to act for the company in connection with the sale of publications, or the purchase of manuscripts or publications for sale in the American market.

NEW YORK CITY.—The publishing business of the late Norman L. Munro, at Nos. 24 and 26 Vandewater Street, was sold at public auction on the 24th inst., at 11 A.M., under the terms of Mr. Munro's will, by direction of George Munro and Frank Squier, the executors, and was bid in by Mrs. Munro, the widow, for $150,000. Included in the property which Mrs. Munro bid in are the publications Golden Hours, The Family Story Paper, and The Cap. Collier Library. The property also includes the stock of paper, manuscripts, books, copyrights and plates for the publications, the good-will of the business, printing-presses, etc. It is believed to be the intention of Mrs. Munro to continue the business.

NEW YORK CITY.—The schedules of H. W. Hagemann, bookseller, show: liabilities, $4835; nominal assets, $3154; actual assets, $3130.

STAUNTON, VA.—Frank T. Holt, formerly of Caldwell & Holt of Staunton, Va., has sold out his interest in that firm, and opened up for himself with a well selected stock of books and stationery at 22 West Main Street.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HARPER & BROTHERS have in preparation a German edition of "Ben Hur."

EDWARD ARNOLD, whose American office is at 70 Fifth Avenue, New York City, will publish early in the fall Sir Henry Colville's new book, "The Land of the Nile Springs."

THE AMERICAN PUBLISHING CO., Hartford, Conn., are the publishers of "The Blue Ribbon" referred to last week as being issued by Dodd, Mead & Co. The book is sold by subscription.

THE New York Shakespeare Society has bought the Edgar Allan Poe cottage at Fordham, and will try to keep it as it was when the poet lived there. The cottage will be always open to visitors. Until recently the Poe cottage was the property of Austin E. Ford, editor of the Freeman's Journal, and Fire Commissioner.

WILLIAM MORRIS (Kelmscott Press) announces "Child Christopher," a new prose romance by William Morris; "Selected Poems of Robert Herrick," and "Christabel, and other Poems of S. T. Coleridge," both edited by F. S. Ellis, to be issued uniform with the Kelmscott Press editions of Keats and Shelley. The third volume of the Kelmscott "Shelley," by the way, is to be ready in September.

AMONG the novels now preparing for the early Fall trade by Lovell, Coryell & Co. is a story by Edward W. Townsend, whose "Chimmie Fadden" sketches have had such a vogue in the past few months. The tale, which is to be entitled "A Daughter of the Tenements," will be in the author's characteristic vein. Another story of note will be one from the pen of Eleanor Merron, entitled "As the Wind Blows."

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as "not having been received."

The editor does not hold himself responsible for errors in this department, as his time for proof-reading is limited to the briefest glance.

JOHN MURPHY & CO., COMPLETE LINE OF CATHOLIC PRAYER-BOOKS

For the Season of 1895-1896.

We invite the attention of the trade to our extensive line of Catholic Prayer-Books for the season of 1895-1896. We have formed relations with the best binderies in England, which enable us to present all that is new in design and finish. Hereafter our importations will be direct and our prices, all of which have been reduced, so graded as to meet the wants of all classes of buyers. For variety and style our books have been long and favorably known to the Catholic public throughout the Union; and to maintain their high standard we devote the greatest care to the selection of the material entering into their structure—paper, type, design, and workmanship all being strictly first-class.

To meet the steadily growing demand for this class of books you will find it advantageous to have a representative line in your stock for the Autumn and Holiday trade. If at a loss what to order send to us for a limited selection.

Write at once for our new Illustrated Catalogue which gives a correct idea of our styles and prices.

THE NEWEST BOOKS.

William the Silent,

Prince of Orange, the Moderate Man of the XVIth Century. The Story of his Life as told in his own Letters, in those of his friends and his enemies, and from Official Documents.

By RUTH PUTNAM. Two vols., crown octavo, gilt tops, with 53 illustrations, maps, fac-simile reproductions, etc., $3.75.

"An examination of this book will show that it has good reason for its existence. Without superseding Motley's study, it deserves to be placed beside that work. The chief point wherein Miss Putnam has the advantage of Motley is in the new historical material which time has placed at her disposal. . . . She treats William's character with judicial impartiality. Her method has the advantage of fidelity to historical sources, and of possessing the vividness and color of contemporary impressions. Her subject is one of the greatest men in history, and we see him as he was, and not as some one else imagined him to be."

Life of Sir James Fitzjames Stephen,

Bart., K.C.S.I. By his brother, LESLIE STEPHEN, author of "Hours in a Library," etc. With two portraits. 8vo, $4.50, net.

"Among the half-dozen biographies of the first order which have appeared in the last twenty years, this volume deserves a place. It is a real biography; a work of art as well as of fraternal affection; a monument which several loving hands have helped to build up; a life-like picture of a remarkable man, with his failings not unnoted, and with vivid sketches of some of his friends."—London Times.

Egyptian Archæology.

By G. MASPERO. Translated from the French by Amelia B. Edwards. New edition, revised by the author, with the co-operation of Kate Bradbury, Secretary Egyptian Exploration Society. $2.25.

"The original work and the translation by the late Amelia B. Edwards have been before the public about eight years, and full recognition has been accorded to their merits as to accuracy, fulness, and attractiveness. It were impossible to find a more competent writer or a more sympathetic translator. The present edition has all the admirable features of the earlier, and some others in addition."—New York Nation.

Wild Flowers of the Northeastern States.

Drawn and carefully described from life, without undue use of scientific nomenclature, by ELLEN MILLER and MARGARET C. WHITING. With 308 illustrations, the size of life, and a frontispiece printed in colors. Large quarto, buckram, 8½ x 11¼ inches, in box, $4.50, net.

"Anybody who can read English can use the work and make his identifications, and in the case of some of the flowers the drawings alone furnish all that is necessary. . . . The descriptions are as good of their kind as the drawings are of theirs."—New York Times.

Julian,

Philosopher and Emperor, and the Last Struggle of Paganism against Christianity. By ALICE GARDNER, Lecturer in Newnham College, Cambridge. Being No. 13 in Heroes of Nations Series. Fully illustrated. Cloth, $1.50; half leather, gilt tops, $1.75.

"M. W. H., in the N. Y. Sun, says of this:

"One of the most admirable of the volumes included in the 'Heroes of the Nations' series. . . . To the author was intrusted a most difficult subject, and but few English scholars could have treated it with more thoroughness, skill, and discrimination."

The Heart of Life.

A Novel. By W. H. MALLOCK, author of "A Romance of the Nineteenth Century," "The New Republic," "The New Paul and Virginia," "A Human Document," etc. 12mo.

This is the novel of contemporary English life on which Mr. Mallock has been so long at work, and which, it has been predicted, will rival in popular favor, his now famous "Romance of the Nineteenth Century."

Elizabeth's Pretenders.

A Novel. By HAMILTON ALDÉ, author of "Rita," "Poet and Peer," etc. 12mo.

Sentimental Studies

And a Set of Village Tales. By HUBERT CRACKANTHORPE, author of "Wreckage." 12mo, $1.00.

"Hubert Crackanthorpe is at present very widely known in England, and is becoming every day better known in America. 'Wreckage' made his name a few years ago, and he has from time to time contributed impressions to the Westminster Gazette and elsewhere. This is his first important book since 'Wreckage,' and his dissection of character in these 'Studies' is among the important contributions to recent English literature."

The Honour of the Flag.

By W. CLARK RUSSELL. (No. 4 in the Autonym Library.) American Copyright Edition. Oblong 24mo, 50 cents.

Master Wilberforce.

The Study of a Boy. By "RITA," author of "A Husband of No Importance," "A Gender in Satin," etc., etc. 12mo, $1.00.

Her Majesty.

A Romance of To-Day. By ELIZABETH KNIGHT TOMPKINS. No. 6 in the Hudson Library. Paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

Cause and Effect.

A Novel. By ELLINOR MEIRION. (Similar in general style to "A Literary Courtship.") 16mo, 75 cents.

God Forsaken.

A Novel. By FREDERIC BRETON, author of "A Heroine in Homespun," etc. 12mo.

"A very clever book. . . . The book has many charms. . . . The characters are well and firmly drawn and true to life; the descriptions are very good and charming in the extreme. Mr. Breton has produced a work which will be enjoyed by a very wide and diverse circle of readers."—Liverpool Mercury.

Cherryfield Hall.

An episode in the career of an adventuress. By FREDERIC HENRY BALFOUR (Ross George Dering), author of "Dr. Mirabel's Theory," "Gerald," etc., etc. 12mo.

"This is a brilliantly told tale, the constructive ingenuity and literary excellence of which entitle the author to a place of honor in the foremost rank of contemporary English romancists. . . . We cannot too cordially recommend this book to general and careful perusal."—London Daily Telegraph.

In Camphor.

A volume of poems. With many illustrations by HOWARD CHANDLER CHRISTY. Octavo, ornamental cloth, $1.25.
